I think the greatest peace is found
By those who live
 near to the ground,
Who find their work
 and play and rest
Close to the kind earth's
 warm, brown breast;
Who work with flowers
 and trees and grain;
Who feel the summer
 sun and rain;
Who hold dumb creatures in their care,
And plan for them
 a daily fare;
Who read with understanding eyes
The changing message
 of our skies,
And see in earth,
 from sky to clod,
The open living
 books of God.
